Customs and Border Protection Officer (CBPO) is a full-time, uniformed, federal law enforcement professional who helps facilitate lawful international trade and travel at airport and seaport Ports of Entry, and at land border crossings. In addition to CBP’s anti-terrorism mission, CBP officers enforce customs, immigration, and agricultural laws, and prevent the illegal trafficking of humans, narcotics and other contraband into the United States.

Starting June 1, 2019, interested applicants can access the Philadelphia position application via www.CBP.gov or by accessing the following links: all applicants or veterans only. The CBP Officer’s Career webpage can be visited for more information on duties, responsibilities, pay and benefits of a CBP officer. Applicants must be a U.S. citizen and resident for the last three years, have a valid driver's license, pass a medical examination, and fitness and drug tests. Applicants must also pass a thorough background investigation and polygraph examination.

Upon successful graduation from CBP’s Field Operations Academy, officers may be assigned to passenger, trade or tactical operations teams at Philadelphia International Airport, or to one of several seaport inspection facilities.
